For County Commissioner
S. TINKHAM,
Brownington.

Great misfortune.—Sam Stanford, a young man, who has been in the hospital for some time, died last night.

BARTON.

Man.—Thanks to Newell Burnham, a little one for their present of "backpacks."

Subject of lecture at Brick House next afternoon.—"Links of a chain of years old."

Remember the lecture this (Monday) evening, by Dr. Cheney, of Stanstead, on "Alcoholic Stimulants and its Effects on the Human System."

A. Earle left for New York this morning to purchase material for the paper which is to be started at Morville.

Thirteen couple of our village boys girls took a starlight ride to Wilby last Thursday evening to visit Miss Cutler, who is keeping school here, and had a grand time.

That Mrs. John Evans—a lady eighty years of age—can beat many of the younger women in the art of preserving pickles, we have the privilege of enjoying from the two quarts left at our place last week. Many thanks.

Due to the pressure of work we are unable to attend the lecture last evening, but we hear it spoken with interest to all lovers of history, which Mr. Perkins has the thanks of citizens with the promise of something more substantial by and by.

The statistics show in district number including Newport village, 151 families, in 110 of which there are children under 20 years of age. There are 78 children under five years of age; 75 between five and ten; 72 between ten and fifteen; and 46 between fifteen and twenty.

Total number under twenty years of age, 284; number of births during the past year, 29; number of deaths 13.—Est.

The statistics of Barton district No. 1 (large district) show 186 families 119 of which have children under 20 years of age. Whole number of children under 20 years of age 284; No. between ten and twenty, 46; between ten and fifteen, 65; between fifteen and twenty, 46; between twenty and twenty-five, 77.

E. W. Rawson has nine hens—four old and five pullets—which, during the month of January, laid 176 eggs. Contrary of the cold weather of the month, seems to us that this is doing remarkably well. One of our neighbors has twenty hens, and he told us the other day that he had got one egg this morning, and that was laid by the rooster.

Mr. Skinner of Neosho Rapids, Kansas, our thanks for a chunk of buffalo antler, sent early by L. W. Stinson, Esq., the landowner, who also has our thanks for the trouble of bringing it. That of "go-meat," "Jo. is home," and "old go tip-top with a little 'hard' " much better than the "salt horse" used to get down in Dixie. Eh?

From the Boston Advertiser we learn that Willie Sardo, formerly of this place, died suddenly at Santa Fe, New Mexico, on the 27th ult. He was a West Indian graduate, and 1st lieutenant and assistant of the fifteenth regular army.

Not particular as to the cause of his death. This will be a heavy blow to his sister Nettie, who but a few months since left her old home in Barton, to live with her brother, far away in Mexico. Judge Poland, who appointed him to the military academy has made provisions for a home for his sister and her child. Rumor here says that his wife was insured for $3000.

The friends of Geo. H. Blake, at the mill, South Barton, to the number of nearly forty, went up from this village last Thursday evening, to pay him an intended surprise, but found it to be not so much a surprise as he had been prepared for several days. A most excellent supper, with oysters was prepared for the company, and each given a chance to enjoy himself according to his own inclination, which was improved well into the "we sun" hours, when all retired, feeling that "it was not for them to be there." Such things, believe, do not injure the morals of the people in the least, if rightly conducted, tend, rather, toward their improvement.

BARTON LANDING.

Dr. J. F. Wright has moved his office over Grandy, Skinner & Parker's store, to his house which he recently purchased of Dr. Ranney. We are not much acquainted with the doctor, but enough to know that he is a gentleman. When we hear his name our hearts run back to the days when we were under the rod of his brother Riley, a successful lawyer in Baltimore, where all the school were obliged to obey the master's commands the first he spoke to. If the Dr. is any like brother, and sets out to cure a patient, he will do it whether the patient likes or no.

BROWNINGTON.

Rev. E. W. Culver of Barton Landing, holding evening meetings in Dist. No. East Brownington. The inhabitants are grateful for his interest in their welfare and hope to give some more substantial proof for the same.

The donation at the Center on Wednesday was well attended and Rev. Mr. Culley received about $70 as the result of the visit. Great credit is due the ladies who so tastefully arranged the tables and attended to the physical wants of the large number present.

We think the longevity of the Robinson family worthy of mention. There are now living three of its members whose united ages are 266 years. Mrs. Ruth Gilson is aged 92, Benjamin Robinson 89 and Lois Robinson 85. They are all in comfortable health and bid fair to outlive many much younger than themselves.

Mr. Valentine Going, after an illness of several weeks died Tuesday eve, at the age of seventy years. He was a worthy citizen and an obliging neighbor. He has been a resident of this town over twenty years and filled some important offices. Four prominent men living within a few rods of each other and of nearly the same age have died here in little over a year.

COVENTRY.

A few of our schools are very nearly a failure as they are run except for the teachers to get their pay. Business of all kinds is very dull; in this place dull is no name for it.

A few days since a C. Carrow was at work for H. C. Cleveland with an ox team, loading a log upon a sled, the team started too soon, and the log rolled upon him, rolling up to his breast from his feet before he could stop the team, jamming him pretty badly but fortunately the team stopped, thereby preventing his head getting jammed and he was out at work the next day.

CRAFTSBURY.

The measles are making almost a universal sweep through town. One school has closed and others are expecting to close this week. It makes a good excuse for many to obtain liquor of the town agent. As some have just had them others are now having them and more expecting to have them.

Mrs. John McAlister has a grape vine which grew from the seed planted in a box last spring, and which grew ten feet during the summer. It was taken into the house December 23d, when a new shoot started from the stock, and in 35 days it has grown 7 1/2 feet, making an average growth of 2 1/2 inches per day, and is still growing.

Mr. A. Randall, by his mode of keeping stock and the kind of stock he raises, is convincing the farmers of this vicinity of the value of the Durham stock. He has three pairs of twin steers, all Durhams, aged one, two and three years next spring. The three years old measure about seven feet. The others are equally as promising and all well matched. He has a large stock, mostly of the same breed. The sire of these steers is nothing more than an average of his stock generally.

DERBY.

An Indian and two squaws, 6 or 8 papooses, cats, dogs, hens, doves, &c., have been living all through the past cold weather, in a little hut of their own construction, in the woods between West Derby and Derby Centre. They have a stove in the centre of the tent which just leaves room enough for them to lay around it. They got their living by making baskets and begging. Last week an old Indian over ninety years old who was with them died. He was given a decent burial by the town.

GLOVER.

There were in school district No. 3, during the year 1872, sixteen deaths—a very remarkable occurrence in the history of the town.

The Patrons of Husbandry, Orleans Lodge No. 5, will hold a public meeting for the installation of officers, on Thursday, P. M., February 13. There will be addressed by speakers from abroad; an oyster supper will be served; and there will be a social gathering in the evening.

H. S. CHAPLIN, Sec'y.

Mr. D. B. Randall has recently remodelled and repaired his planer at the expense of thirty dollars. It is the oldest planer in town and formerly did his work with one knife. Mr. S. G. Cree, of Wheelock has changed it into a double knife or cap planer. Mr. Randall is now prepared to do his work as well as those having more modern made machines. Mr. Randall well merits the good run of custom he is receiving.

Last October Mr. L. W. Patterson, while ploughing turned up a woodchuck, then in a torpid state. He breathed naturally enough, but with all the shaking, pinching of ears, and twisting of tail, he would not be awakened to sensibility. He took him home and put him in an empty stove in his shop. The next day Mr. Patterson took a friend to see him and he gave them to understand that he was not dead, by uttering a shrill whistle. He very soon, however, gave himself up to dormancy again, in which state he has remained most of the time, partaking of no food since his captivity. Occasionally he gets to thinking about Spring and wakes up and whistles, turns over and goes to sleep again. During all the cold weather he has managed to suck his claws fast enough to keep from freezing. Mr. Patterson intends to keep him till spring when he proposes to "pardon him" out of his prison and set him free for his good behavior.

HARDWICK.

Mr. H. R. Mack, of Hardwick, has just returned from market with the finest stock of Italian marble in Northern Vermont. Mr. Mack has been doing business in Hardwick for years and has had an increase of one third more business during the past year than in any previous. His motto is "What is worth doing at all, is worth doing well." Read his advertisement in another column.

IRASBURGH.

Donation visit and oyster supper for the benefit of Rev. H. F. Forrest, at the Methodist church this week Thursday. Money and produce of all kinds received.

Read Sam Stanford's communication on the County Building question, headed "A Great Misfortune," in another column. He feels bad enough,—but then—we guess he is not "kilt," yet.

ISLAND POND.

The dwelling house occupied by Robert Kilpatrick, in this village, was burned on the morning of the 23d inst., with its contents. Mr. K. being at the time sick with the typhoid fever, barely escaped with his life.

J. M. Bartlett and E. C. Robinson, for several years in trade in this place, have dissolved partnership. Mr. B. retiring from the firm. The business is to be continued at the old stand by Mr. Robinson. Mr. Bartlett it will be remembered represented Essex County in the State Senate at the last term of the Vermont Legislature.

An effort is being made, with the prospective success, to raise money to build an Episcopal Church in this village. We are informed that a society is already formed and quite a sum subscribed toward the erection of the church.

The fact that three hundred cars have been at one time in waiting for inspection by the officers of the Customs at this place, affords something of an idea of the business performed at this port of entry.

PROLIFIC.—The attention of the crowd gathered at the station last Tuesday morning on the arrival of the down train, was attracted to a woman apparently not more than 35 years of age, with ten children, all her own, whose ages ranged from one to seventeen years. As they filed out from the car to the baggage room, sized with military exactness, their appearance elicited frequent remarks from the by-standers.

On the 21st, two deserters from an English ship were found in a box car of a freight train going east. They had been concealed in the car for 24 hours and one of them had frozen his feet badly. Their confinement and suffering from cold becoming unendurable, they made a noise which attracted the attention of a switch-man, who called for Mr. Currier, Custom House officer, who broke the seal of the car and released them.

They supposed, before being let out, that they were still in Canada, and consequently expected to be returned to service, but could not endure their confinement and the cold longer. When told that they were in free America, their joy was unbounded.—Essex Co. Herald.

JAY.

Geo. W. Crandall was taken with fits one day last week, and they continued until he had twenty-four and at present is lying ill.

V. B. Sisso has purchased of Elkins & Brailly, the premises formerly owned by A. W. Burt, consisting of a dwelling house, wheelwright shop and blacksmith shop, taking possession immediately.

An assault and battery case occurred between H. Oviatt, and H. Banister, from which a complaint to grand jury resulted in an arrest and fine of four dollars and costs on Oviatt.

The census of school district No. 1, foots up as follows: Heads of families, 26; Children under twenty, 26; Whole population, 100. Being a decrease of five or six.

NEWPORT.

The R. R. Company are just commencing to have the Memphremagog House painted. As it is to be thoroughly painted, inside and out, it is expected that it will take until June to finish it.

Dr. Barbour, of Boston, has been delivering lectures in this and adjoining towns, and if his chronology should prove right, in the coming spring, "The Angel of the Lord shall stand with one foot on the sea and one on the land and declare that time shall be no more."

As Thomas Beedle was coming to this village from Troy with a load of butter during the thaw, his horses got into the water near the Coburn school house, and one got down so he had to draw him out with the other. He was in the water nearly a half hour, and was thoroughly chilled. There was so much snow it held the water, making quite a pond.

Leroy Scott wanted to drive on the ice the other day with a loaded team, but thought he would try the ice first, which he did, and found it not only too thin for a team but too thin for himself. He sang out for help as he went down, but nobody heard, and after tasting the water twice he managed to clear himself and came up dripping and shivering. He did not drive on the ice that day!

Robert Cammet narrowly escaped being killed last Friday while falling trees in Andrew Wheeler's woods. He tried to jump out of the way of the tree, but fell into the snow and had just time to roll over and save his life.—Express.

ST. JOHNSBURY.

There are from forty to fifty cases of measles among the scholars in the Elyville district.

The last heard of Jim Fisk was that he had produced a "corner" in brimstone, in his present abode, and expects to sell out at a good profit when Stokes leaves the custody of Uncle Sam's officials. So says our "local."

Considerable talk has been bred here by a wedding which took place at the Avenue House last Sunday evening. It seems the parties were contemplating getting hitched some time next summer, but a few "gentlemen" who consider "everybody's business nobody's business," influenced them to have the ceremonies performed that night, and accordingly the town clerk was routed up to give a certificate, and a justice to tie the knot, and the happy pair were made "one flesh."

SHEFFIELD.

Hiram A. Cutting, M. D., State Geologist, gave the following lectures at the M. E. Church: Saturday evening, Jan. 18, "The Microscope and its Revelations." Sunday morning, Jan. 19, "Jerusalem and its Environs." Afternoon, "God in Nature." Evening, "God in History." The lecturer also gave an interesting address to the Sabbath School. This and the lectures were well received. Although a scientist, the Dr. is working in harmony with christianity, and believes that science can never take the place or answer the purpose of christianity, and that there is no antagonism between true science and the bible.

WESTFIELD.

There will be an oyster supper and social visit at the town hall, Thursday evening of this week, for the benefit of Rev. D. McConnell. All are invited to attend.

WHEELOCK.

Jesse G. Gray purchased and shipped to the Boston market during the fall 200 head of cattle, valued at about $10,000.

There was an oyster supper at the town hall Wednesday evening, Jan. 29, under the auspices of the "Ladies' Benevolent Society." Music by Cree & Eastman's Band. Proceeds of meeting, $15.

MARRIED.

At Newport, Jan. 21, by Rev. W. C. Somerville, Jos. Libby of Irasburgh, F. Q., and Miss Marietta Clifford of Boston.

At Newport, Dec. 25, by M. G. Sargent, Esq., Mr. Wm. Magoon and Miss Clara Pugh, both of Foton, V. C.

DIED.

All notices of deaths inserted free; obituary notices and poetry free only per line.

In Barton, Jan. 18, Mrs. Sally H. wife of Wm. Rowe, aged 72 years.

At Newport Center, Jan. 20, of disease of the heart, Wm. J. Jenkins, aged 40 years.

In Irasburgh, Jan. 23, Wm. S. Flint, aged 78 years. He resided, when young, in Hardwick, and was a member of the Congregational church there; from thence he removed to Lowell, where he lived several years, and was active and influential citizen. He moved to Irasburgh in 1852, and has since remained in this town. He was never a strong man physically, but was possessed of indomitable energy, and a powerful will to carry out his plans. He has had extensive educational, but for three or four years has been confining and arranging his affairs as he said, "preparing to leave them." He felt that this was his last sickness and arranged for the comfort and happiness of those near and dear to him, gave directions concerning the last end of his life, and he died in his bed, surrounded by four of his kind neighbors, and seemed to pre-arrange and be with them. His sufferings were most intense for five days, but his last hours were full of peace, and he fell asleep in Christ as sweetly as an infant in his mother's arms. His dying wish to see his youngest daughter, Mrs. Crane, who resides in Virginia, was granted, and then he passed to the other shore, his work on this side finished.

In Derby, Jan. 21, Zevas Cobb, aged 86 years.

In West Derby, at the residence of his son, Jan. 21, Horace Mori, aged 73 years. He formerly lived in Derby, but more recently in Concord, N. H.

In North Craftsbury, Jan. 27, Maria, infant daughter of F. N. and Angie F. Boutwell, aged 8 months.

At East Charleston, Jan. 15, Amos M. Clement, aged 61 years and 4 months.

In Coventry, Feb. 24, of consumption, Shadrach Ordway, aged 60 years and 10 months. Funeral the 7th.

REMARKS.—The receipts of butter for the week have been larger than usual, owing mainly to large shipments having arrived from Canada. Prices, however, remain quite firm for all good to choice lots. Common butter, however, not so plentifully higher, are more firm held, and, in some cases, better prices are asked. Cheese is steady and holders are firm in their views. Eggs are lower; flour is quiet but firm; pork, lard and hams are steady, and prices have advanced a shade for large lots; beans are steady and full prices are obtained; poultry is decidedly dull, and prices are low down; hay is steady and firm for choice, common dull; oats and corn are firm; potatoes are selling at good prices.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

A GREAT MISFORTUNE.

Stanford up a Tree!

Yes—No, not quite though, for he is one of those fellows that when you think he is dead, he is not quite dead, but up at something. Now when the Boston Lumber Company called on me, Mr. Editor, that lot of our people were awful sick, some fainted away and others died prematurely, and if it had not been for a large dose of pluck, doubtless Stanford would have "gone up the spout" long ago; but as the scripture saith, "whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth," so it seems that he was to be well, and was the result of which the last trick played on him will show. You know there was a mighty effort made last fall to move the company's buildings to Newbury, and when Stanford found it out he just went for the job, and got it, thereby securing a lucrative job for the winter. And to make the thing more profitable and spry (for he was not the game) it was arranged for him to be a wheelbarrow, as was suggested, it would make less confusion than to run them on a sled, and more spry. So he got out his wheelbarrow, loaded up the pluck, and did a string round the town to make it all right, so that in case of a smash-up he would have to be hindered only long enough to get on forward wheel mended at a time, thereby hastening on his journey. For if they waited on the railroad, and they knew Stanford could beat them all to fitters (if the stock, for his running expenses, wouldn't be more than half as much as the railroad; and then when they stopped to wood up, he could just keep going, and in a little time he would get all the passengers, and they would go through so much quicker, and that would spite our railroad stock. So you see they were heartened on that score, and tried to do for us all that could. But alas how vain are all our visions of bliss—transitory and transient! So it was in this case, for Stanford got up ready to take the top stone from the bottom of our county house to transport to Newbury, and when he was on the way, he was told that the job was lost. But instead of Stanford lying on his back with his head in air, he just picked himself up, "right about here," and says, well, just before they did they told me that the boys of our own town were on their own works have had. And now, as a last resort,

He has Waded In

on making the

in the county, and the MOST OF THEM TOO, always on hand at a moment's call. And furthermore, he has opened his house for the convenience of the public during our winter, in hopes to greet his old friends once more before the COUNTY BUILDING goes home to let him go more. And so see the man who wears a smiling countenance, notwithstanding the boisterous sea upon which he rides.

Give him a call, one and all; it will do you good.
